Only Four Days Marching Distance From Russia In Polish Advance

TROOPS SURROUND IMPORTANT CITY

Lwow Is Encircled By Germans And Drive Continues To Krzemieniec

By JAMES E. BROWN

CERNAUTI, Rumania.—(Near the Polish frontier), Sept. 14.—Only four days marching distance from the Soviet Russian frontier, German troops operating in southeastern Poland surrounded the city of Lwow today and swept on toward Krzemieniec.

(Editor's Note: Krzemieniec, last known refuge of the foreign diplomatic corps in Poland, lies only 25 miles from the Soviet frontier. The town was reported to have been heavily bombed by German planes yesterday.)

In encircling Lwow (Lemberg), the Germans followed the same tactics pursued in the Warsaw region. The city itself was not entered, but after the Germans had completely

The local option issue which was voted on in seven districts of the county on Tuesday, proved somewhat disappointing to the drys, since four out of the seven areas voted wet. In the strictly farming sections sentiment was against liquor, but in sections which are part farming and part industrial, the wetts were able to roll up a majority, although in most cases it was not large. In some of the townships, particularly in Union and Wayne, it was interesting to note the differences of opinion in the different precincts. Most people will be able to figure out for themselves the reason.

A pastor down in Somerset county, Pa., has announced to his congregation that he will not discuss conditions in Europe in his Sunday sermons. He is of the opinion that the members of his flock hear enough and read enough about the war on week days and that they deserve a day of rest on Sundays. It is not likely that his example will be followed by many pastors, but it might be a good idea at that. Everybody is interested in news of the conflict, but there are so many conflicting reports that it is hard to get at the truth. It is not likely that ministers will be able to give any definite information. The best they can do is to state the sources of their information and comment on the general aspect of the war.

While an official count of the vote cast at Tuesday's election will be started on Friday, it is not likely that it will make any material change in the results as announced. The figures have been pretty carefully checked from the return sheets and while there may be a few errors they will not likely be great. The official count will be slowed up owing to the large number of names written on ballots. Some rule should be adopted that would place the burden upon county committees to see that there are candidates for all offices to be filled, no matter if they are insignificant. The principal vacancies for which names were written in were on election boards.

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—The rich seaport of Gdynia, Poland's greatest harbor and only maritime link with the rest of the world, surrendered and passed into German hands today.

An official announcement in Berlin stated that the Polish commander in Gdynia, who for two weeks had held out against a German onslaught by land, sea and air, sur-

Senate Foes Of Changes In Neutrality Act Plan Delay By Long Debate

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—In the face of administration claims that congress is ready to lift the neutrality act arms embargo on shipment of arms to warring nations, senate foes of the proposal today mapped a program of delay through exhaustive debate.

Their program also included a drive to keep congress continuously in session, once it has met in special session on September 21 in response to President Roosevelt's call.

No Filibuster

Insisting that there will be no filibuster supporters of the neutrality act conceded that their best chance of beating the administration's program is to bring the issues directly into the homes of voters throughout the country.

Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, leader of the newly-formed peace bloc, planned to appeal to the nation over the radio tonight to avoid the possibility of America being dragged into war through sale of arms to Great Britain and France.

"I'm glad the special session was called," said Borah. "Congress will have work enough to keep it here continuously. Whether it desires to stay or not is another question."

Senator Clark (D), Missouri, urged that congress remain in session for the period of the limited emergency proclaimed by the president.

First Big Battle May Take Place North Of Basle

(International News Service)

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 14.—Germany and France today sped shock troops up to either side of the frontier immediately north of Basle, pointing to an imminent attack which may mark the first "big push" of the western front.

Troops were being rushed up to positions on the Rhine only a mile and a quarter north of the Swiss border, and army concentrations by both enemies were reported to be heavy.

The German troops were well-trained militiamen—and not raw civilian recruits. They took up positions in German villages immediately back of the German westwall. Similar movements were observed on the French side of the Maginot line.

A boat of unknown nationality today was "accidentally" sunk at the mouth of Basle harbor on the Rhine, practically closing it to all traffic. The harbor contained 500,000 tons of river shipping.

Interception Of Secret Messages By Radio Denied

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The Knickerbocker Broadcasting Co. of New York City, operating radio station WMCA, today vigorously denied that it had directly or indirectly intercepted and broadcast secret radio messages of Great Britain and Germany as alleged by the Federal Communications Commission.

The commission earlier this week made the charges against the company and ordered it to show cause why its license should not be revoked.

In its formal denial, the company said it had not intercepted messages of the two governments or any other governments at any time. The denial said that the company has broadcast news from the countries now at war, but has never intercepted messages during war or peace times as alleged by the FCC.

The station said that it had no news bureau of its own.

His suspicions aroused by marks underneath a window on the white wall of the exterior of the county jail, and by marks on a wall of the adjoining court house, Sheriff M. Ingham investigated and thereby prevented a probable daring jail delivery.

Inside the jail, Sheriff Ingham found an inch iron bar sawed out, and several more partly sawed. Searching further, in a small opening in the matting of the padded cells, he found three saws.

The teachers were deprived of the increases when the state supreme court invalidated the chain store and theatre tax calculated to produce $1,500,000 annually. The levy was imposed during the Democratic administration of former Governor George H. Earle.

Governor James' Adminis-tration To Support Presi-dent In Crisis

POLITICS MUST BE SIDETRACKED

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Sept. 14.—The James administration was represented today as ready to throw its whole-hearted support behind the national administration in the drive to pre-serve American neutrality.

Although Governor James has been outspoken in his criticism of President Roosevelt's domestic policies, in circles close to the governor he was described as feeling it to be his duty to support the president in the current war crisis.

Belief persisted that as long as Mr. Roosevelt hewed to his decision to shun politics in administering foreign policy, the Republican ad-ministration headed by Governor James would avoid making political capital out of the national government's conduct of foreign affairs.

Watchful Waiting

Governor James, boomed by warm admirers as a candidate for the Re-publican nomination for president in 1940, was aware of the fact that the European situation might help the president strengthen his hold on the electorate.

A policy of "watchful waiting," cut perhaps from a pattern at least a quarter century old, has been adopted by the James administra-tion as its own.

How long this policy will stand up only the future can tell.

It might be revised drastically, according to some observers, in the event Republican leaders later should come to the conclusion that the president is using the foreign situation to bolster his own political position.

Given assurance that the presi-dent is pursuing a non-political course designed to keep the United States out of war, however, Governor James' G.O.P. administration is pledged to reaffirm foreign policy.

Military observers in Cernauti now believe that the Germans will reach the Russian frontier in four days and will have occupied the entire area contiguous to Soviet Ukraine and Rumania.

Two Rumanian divisions are con-centrated on the frontier, prepared to dislodge retreating Poles and in-tern them in concentration camps. It was reported here that the Rus-sians will not permit retreating Poles to cross the border.

Claims Are Mixed

Budapest, Hungary, Sept. 14.—Mixed with Polish claims of success-ful drives in the pocket west of Warsaw and repeated repulses of Ger-man assaults while the Warsaw radio urged the people to "dance and be gay," there were Polish admis-sions today of reversals on two fronts.

Polish troops were forced to re-treat on the Warsaw-Siedlce rail-way line east of the capital, the Polish general staff explained, "owing to the overwhelming number of enemy troops."

With another German column southeast of Warsaw, encirclement of the city is almost complete.

Arrival of the German vanguard at Lwow (Lemberg), important in-dustrial city in the south and key point on the supply lines from Rumania, was confirmed in the staff's statement that several attacks of German motorized forces on Lwow had been repulsed.

Although they seem practically surrounded in a bag west of Warsaw, nearly 150 miles long, several Polish divisions "continued an effi-cient offensive between Kutno and Lowica, north and east of Lodz, causing heavy casualties to the enemy," the general staff asserted.

Again and again the Germans struck at the old fortress of Modlin, at the confluence of the Vistula and Narew rivers northwest of Warsaw, but all assaults were reported "vigi-nously repelled."

Fifty German planes bombed Warsaw Wednesday, completely de-stroying a beautiful palace which had been converted into the Pi-sudski Institute and used as a cen-ter of historical and sociological research.

Thirty German planes were downed, Warsaw reported.

less pounding at the city's defenses, a white flag went aloft from the Polish headquarters.

The order to "cease fire" was given, and a few minutes later the Polish commander, flanked by mem-bers of his staff, came out into the open and informed General Eber-hard that Gdynia had surrendered.

The German commander demand-ed a hundred hostages, including the mayor of the city, as a guarantee that the terms of surrender would be respected. The Poles agreed and German troops immediately marched into the city.

An authoritative Berlin source stated that the occupational troops "found many armed civilians."

Deal To Partition Poland?

Berlin, Sept. 14.—A Russo-German deal for the partition of Poland was reported on reliable authority in Berlin today as the rich Polish port of Gdynia surrendered and the Ger-man high command asserted that the French offensive on the Western front had been "stopped" by Ger-man artillery and land-mines.

An understanding has been reached, it was reported, whereby Soviet Russia will occupy eastern Poland shortly. The occupation may be effected before German troops have even reached this area, or if they have, the Germans will with-draw and hand the territory over to the Russians.

The plan appeared to call for eventual creation of some sort of a central Polish state as a "buffer" between Germany and the U. S. S. R.

Lutheran church this week cele-brated the 113th anniversary of the dedica-tion of the church building.

The edifice was built in 1826, five years after the congregation was orga-nized in 1821. It is of stone con-struction and is still in excellent condition. During its long exist-ence the congregation has only had seven pastors which indicates that there are not as many "kickers" as there are in some congregations.

The trophy was awarded Castle View upon two points, first the beauty and excellence of the exhibit displayed by the local burial park, and also the background upon which the exhibit was built, the beauty of design and workman-ship in the construction of the park itself.

The trophy and the exhibit were in the window during the week, with an attendant demonstrating the display. The display itself is a huge book of enlarged pictures of the park. The pictures show the beauty throughout the changing seasons, the more interesting spots of the park being included in the views.

The views themselves, enlarged, are bound in volume form. The cover of the book is made of cherry wood, bound and studded with bronze, all the work of local crafts-men. Listed among the craftsmen are: woodwork, Clifford M. Propst; Fred Brunner; picture, H. C. Warner; mounting, J. B. Elliott; lettering, R. F. McConnell.

There are 700 member parks in the association, and scores of these compete for the trophy each year. New Castle is the first city of moderate size to be honored with the award, and following the conven-tion about 65 automobiles from all over the Union came to New Castle from Cleveland to see for them-selves the park that had won so much attention. Included in the visitors were the national officers.

Senator Thomas (D), Utah, mem-ber of the foreign relations commit-tee, predicted that the committee will report favorably the adminis-tration program for repeal of the arms embargo by a vote of at least 15 to 8. The same committee voted post-ponement of consideration of em-bargo repeal, 12 to 11, in the regular session.

"I expect, comparatively speak-ing, rather quick action by congress," said Thomas. "Of course, the filibuster still works and a dozen men can delay a vote a long time."

He expects the president to lay be-fore congress a definite pattern for revision of the neutrality act.

While Senator Pepper (D), Flor-iда, said that "I assume the presi-dent has the votes," Senator Murray (D), Montana, said that the fact that war has broken out in Europe changes the situation. He favored repeal of the arms embargo in the regular session.

"It is an embarrassing situation," said Murray, "because if we had acted originally it would have been admittedly neutral to all sides. Now that the war is on I'm not saying how I'll vote."

Senators Gurney (R), South Da-kota, and Davis (R), Pennsylva-nia, said they would be "good listeners" before announcing how they will vote.

Indicative of administration con-fidence of the result, Chairman Bloch of the foreign affairs com-mittee said that more than 21 mem bers of the house, who voted to re-tain the arms embargo, are now ready to lift it. That would be enough votes to change the result in that body, he said.

The bride is employed as bookkeeper for the New Castle Drug stores here, and the groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Carr of East Main street, is connected with the Castle garage as bookkeeper.

LOOK MAN OVER WHO URGES WAR

THERE is general agreement with the substance of President Roosevelt's recent radio address that the United States keep out of war. It is to be devoutly hoped that America can do so.

As the war grows older the terrific barrage of propaganda to get the United States in will be fired against the people from Europe and inside our shores.

We have only to remember what happened a little more than twenty years ago. At the beginning, President Wilson urged neutrality upon us all and even said that it would be better if the war were brought to an indecisive close.

During the campaign of 1916 those seeking to re-elect President Wilson coined the slogan "he keeps us out of war," with glaring posters set up everywhere about how "he protects me and mine." Yet six months after the election we were in war with Germany.

This is not an effort to cast doubt upon the sincerity of the President in his efforts toward keeping the peace then or now. It is only recalled to show how difficult it is to keep out of trouble, especially when American citizens persist in rushing into the war zones and are otherwise bent on getting a closeup view of the difficulties.

As the President says, we have a right to our personal opinions as to the ethical and moral problems of the war in Europe. But we certainly have no right to behave so that we run the danger of getting our country into a war which will send hosts of young men into Europe to serve as cannon fodder and perhaps ruin the economic fabric of America to the point where democracy will be an obsolete word here as well as in Europe.

The next time a man insists loudly to you that we ought to get in this war at once, look him over. You will find that he is too old for active service himself, or that there is some other reason why he would be exempt in case of hostilities.

UNDER IDEAL CONDITIONS

One of the amazing things about traffic fatalities and major accidents is that they happen under "ideal conditions." After the fifty-miles-an-hour speed limit was inaugurated in Pennsylvania investigations showed that there were more fatal accidents on long, straight stretches of road than under other driving conditions.

Now comes the Interstate Commerce Commission with an analysis of the grade-crossing accidents which caused 1311 fatalities last year. The greater number of automobile-train collisions occurred in circumstances that to the average safety student would be perfect for avoidance of danger. The typical accident of this type happened when it was clear, the driver's view of the track was unobstructed, the passenger automobile was traveling between ten and twenty miles an hour and the short freight train moving at less than ten miles an hour.

Added to this are the facts that the crossings, although unprotected, were at a point where there was no grade, the roads were concrete and the drivers were familiar with the crossing. The natural assumption would be that there would be no accidents in such circumstances instead of the greatest number occurring at such times. Why this condition prevails seems to offer a field for study which would be productive of unexpected results.

RURAL FIRE PREVENTION

The Insurance Department of the United States Chamber of Commerce recently pointed out the need for active, year-round fire prevention committees in all rural communities.

In urban areas, the work of fire prevention is adequately carried on by fire departments and other civic bureaus. In many rural sections, which have not established fire departments, work of this character is almost entirely lacking. And that is largely responsible for our total of rural fires—fires which take a gigantic toll of life and property each year.

A good rural fire prevention committee should include members from each township, representing all rural interests. And the committee members must realize in advance that theirs is a vital and continuous work, in which there can be no let-down. Rural areas present special and highly dangerous fire hazards. Farm buildings are usually of an extremely flammable nature. Some farmers are careless in such matters as storing supplies and keeping dry fields cut. And in the average rural district, adequate fire fighting facilities either do not exist, or must be summoned from so great a distance that the damage is done before they can arrive.

There can be no more worthwhile work than fire prevention, whether in a little town or a great city. In this country, the direct loss by fire runs into the hundreds of millions each year, and the indirect loss undoubtedly brings the total to the billion mark. Organized fire prevention has many great accomplishments to its credit, but it can never achieve the greatest results until there is concerted public interest and support. Now is the time to get together in the name of fire prevention—with deeds as well as words.

VACATIONS HERE AND THERE

Among those most happy to have their vacations safely terminated are the Americans who have returned from abroad. A militaristic setting is no place in which to enjoy a respite. The old U. S. A. must look pretty good to those who were in Europe during the early days of the present strife and turmoil.

Of course, life in America is bound to be affected by the war even though official Washington succeeds in steering a course of genuine neutrality. Men in one part of the world cannot murder each other in a frenzied manner without having repercussions of their brutal conduct spread far and wide.

It is the good fortune of the United States, nevertheless, to possess a degree of international isolation making possible a considerable amount of freedom from organized brutality. People who have just ended pleasant vacations in this country should have gained a most forceful index to democracy's blessings.

This generation has produced only a few great actors and they are called statesmen.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CALLS HIS FATHER "SCREWBALL"

"DEAR DR. MYERS: I want to express to you the appreciation I have for the many helpful articles that you have made public to mothers, who perhaps have no other source of help."

"I am writing you today because I became interested in a letter written by my nephew to his father (my brother). You have always stressed the importance of father-son friendship. I feel that this letter expresses that spirit to a great extent . . .

"The boy is now 11 years of age, interested in sports, bicycling, stamp collecting, music, etc."

Boy's Letter To His Dad

"The boy's letter follows: 'Dear Dad: We had a swell trip. We had only one stop from Columbus to Pittsburgh. That stop was Wheeling. We went over the Y bridge. . . . We had a bum trip from New York to Hartford. We went through the Hudson Tunnel. . . .'

"Everything is O. K. on the farm. Allen has 2 nanny goats and 1 big billy goat. I go with the boys and bring the cows from the pasture and chase them back. One of our heifers had a baby calf about 2 feet tall. Everybody is feeling O. K. Signed . . .

"P. S. I listen to the ball game on the radio. Morris Arnovich is hitting a healthy .399. Harry (The Horse) Danning hit a home run yesterday. Greenberg had .0 for 4. Dolph Camilli of Brooklyn has had 13 homers. Hank has 16. How are the Red Birds doing?"

"I am sending key to the bicycle, so you can ride it."

Tells A Beautiful Story

"This boy's letter tells a big, beautiful story, with the climax in 'HI YO SCREWBALL!' In that name is revealed a vast deal of mutual affection. Wouldn't you like to see this son and his father together?"

"No parent needs to feel too dignified to enjoy any salutation from his son or daughter when he knows it comes with unbound respect and love. We can be pretty sure this lad would not so address his father if you and I were in their presence. They would both be very conventional then. These terms of endearment (which might not be so interpreted by others) are reserved for private intimacy and fellowship.

"Any deeply understanding father will enjoy this boy's letter. We wish many more fathers might earn such letters from their sons."

"By the way, I wish more fathers would invite their sons to have lunch with them now and then, and would go with them to games and shows occasionally; that more mothers would meet their daughter downtown for shopping, lunch and then a show."

"One more thing. When these teen-age children call attention to some instances of bad manners of which we have been guilty, let us humbly prove to them that we are sorry for having been so rude, and are eager to avoid these errors in the future. These young folks are so fearful lest we might not be as refined as they expect us to be before their friends; so eager that we shall measure up to what they want their friends to see in us."

THEY GO—BUT.

America can prepare to say farewell to the little red schoolhouse.

Born in the frontier days, educated in memory and song, it served its purpose well. But the closing of that era finds a sturdy newcomer shuddering its way into rural America. Its name, the consolidated school.

Educators call it one of the most significant developments in the history of modern education. The advantages once exclusively enjoyed by city children are now being brought into rural areas. Instead of one teacher, expected to be jack-of-all knowledge, and one room, the consolidated school is staffed with several teachers, all competent specialists in their field. And there are several rooms with facilities and equipment to provide rural America's youngsters with the benefits of modern education offered to city children.

Within the past five years the shutters have been drawn for good on 35,000 of these one-room "little red schoolhouses" throughout the United States. Rural taxpayers found this modern school-unit actually costs twice to support. And though it means many children must travel farther to school than formerly, another newcomer, motor transportation, stepped into the picture when the little red schoolhouse stepped out. In a few weeks, school buses will be carrying some 3,250 pupils between school and home to provide education with a life-line reaching all school-age youngsters. With forty per cent of the nation's communities not reached by railroad, their dependence on motor transportation for the success of the new rural school system, fully equals their reliance on it for commerce with cities.

The fact remains, however, that there was probably more real education given to the children in reading, writing and arithmetic in the little red schoolhouses than there is given today in the modernistic district schools. Also, the children who walked back and forth to the little red school houses, carried their lunches, spent the day and obtained a physical education equal if not superior, to that obtained on the great athletic fields of the modern district schools.

THE MIDDLE-OF-THE-ROAD FELLOW

In the days of rail fences it was comfortable to sit on the fence. The farmer would stop the plow or lay down the hoe and talk with his neighbor for an hour, but sitting on the fence is robbed of its maximum comfort since barbed wire has come into use. Now it is more comfortable off the fence than on it.

It is the good fortune of the United States, nevertheless, to possess a degree of international isolation making possible a considerable amount of freedom from organized brutality. People who have just ended pleasant vacations in this country should have gained a most forceful index to democracy's blessings.

Sun sets tonight 6:12. Sun rises tomorrow 5:40.

The history war teaches us are expensive lessons.

The school teachers of Pennsylvania have a fund of $164,000,000 in their retirement fund. It has been growing for the past 20 years and when a teacher retires the fund will be there to meet the pension and the teachers will have paid for it instead of the government. More power to the teachers.

With its cares and bitter crosses, but a good world after all.

The first of the New World War witnessed an American public punch drunk from propaganda. From all sides we have been deluged with charges, counter-charges, denials, counter-denials, vain boasts and abject apologies. This propaganda has not been confined to the storm centers of London, Berlin, Paris and Warsaw. It can be traced to the biased pronouncements of radio commentators, editorial and headline writers in this country; not all radio commentators, editorial writers and copy desks, just a few of them, but enough to spread that hysteria which beclouds our thinking processes and causes us to rush in where angels fear to tread.

The largest item in the budget is 80 cents for meat. Tea, coffee and cocoa are estimated as a total cost of 19 cents. Cabbage, carrots, potatoes, prunes, oatmeal, rice, bread, macaroni and milk are leading items. The council, however, does not prescribe any definite method for getting the $8.73.

Today I heard two girls arguing as to whether they should think strange men for attention shown them in public places. The older girl held that such acknowledgement would encourage chivalrous strangers to be "fresh." Of course, she was young. Dignified thanks are due any stranger who gives you directions on the street, who yields to you his seat in a street-car or who holds the door open for you. Such cavaliers will not find encouragement in your "thank you" unless it is accompanied with a smile of the "come-hither" variety.

Reader's Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel. Reply to these questions, please: (1) Should the maid or her employer supply the former's uniforms? (2) Is it proper to deduct from a servant's salary the cost of any dishes she may have accidentally broken? (3) Should an employer assume medical expenses of a servant taken ill on the former's premises? —Employer.

Answer: (1) In most houses, both uniforms and aprons are supplied by the employer. (2) No. If she continues to break china she should be either dismissed or given less responsible work to do. (3) The employer is not obligated to do so (except in cases of compensation for accidents), but as a rule he does so if the illness was contracted while the servant was in his home.

Finally, brethren, farewell. Be perfect, be of good comfort, be of one mind, live in peace, and the God of Love and peace shall be with you. 2 Cor. 13:11.

Upsurge In Industry Is Reported In Pennsylvania During Past Week

By TOM R. BRISLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Sept. 14.—An upsurge of industries new to Pennsylvania was foreseen today as the state was gripped by a wartime industrial boom that boosted employment levels to their highest peak since 1933.

Thousands of new and furloughed employees were placed on payrolls, primarily in the state's heavy industries, as manufacturers moved to meet rapidly increasing demands for Pennsylvania products.

Secretary of Commerce Richard P. Brown revealed that glass, textile, ceramic and pottery products never before produced in Pennsylvania would be manufactured in the state, bringing employment to additional thousands.

Brown said the products were previously manufactured in Germany and Czechoslovakia where cheap labor during peace-time made it impractical for American producers to attempt to compete with foreign manufacturers.

Meanwhile, Secretary of Mines John I. Thomas reported "a very decided pickup" in employment and output at bituminous and anthracite mines in the state. The pickup, Thomas added, was reflected in clay mines and brick works because of the need for those products in steel production.

King Of England In Uniform For 16 Hours A Day

LONDON, Sept. 14—King George VI, working an average of 16 hours a day, has put away his civilian clothes and worn only service uniforms since the war started.

The King and Queen Elizabeth, who canceled all social engagements at the outset of hostilities, have new date books to record the round of official visits that keep them busy.

While the Queen visits hospitals, the Air Raid Precautions organizations and nursing centres, the King studies the latest reports from the fighting forces. Outside the chiefs of staff he is the best informed man in the Empire on military matters.

He has the only key to the red dispatch case that arrives from Whitehall.

But, like all other Londoners, the King and Queen obeyed the A. R. P. warden's and took to shelter during London's three air-raid warnings.

American Liner Goes To Aid Of Torpedoed Ship

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—An American passenger liner in north Atlantic turned from her course today and raced to the rescue of the crew of another British freighter which was torpedoed and sunk off the Irish coast early this morning.

Counting Primary Election Vote Was Long And Tedious Task In Some Precincts

In many of the precincts in Lawrence county, counting of the vote cast at the Tuesday primary election was a long tedious process consuming hours of time. Some precincts did not report at the court house until Wednesday forenoon, although the state law requires that the report be taken to the court house as soon as the count is officially completed by the precinct boards.

It is explained by some of the boards that the delay in completing the count was due to the fact that nominations were to be made by party members for the various precinct election boards, and other minor offices for which no one had been nominated. The result was that scores of names were written in and all of these had to be tabulated.

It seems that there should be some arrangement whereby these nominations could be made before the primary and the names appear on the ballot, thus avoiding the long delay that was occasioned.

Probably the fact that a small filing fee causes many of those who would file for these offices, from taking the step, preferring to allow voters to write in their name, thus eliminating the necessity of paying the fee.

Whatever the situation, it is certain that a condition was occasioned that resulted in much trouble for many election boards.

President Could Run Radio, Not Press, If He Desired

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—When President Roosevelt—who has proclaimed a station of limited national emergency—remained that he had no intention of trying to censor the American press or radio "at the present time," he set reporters wondering.

Suppose the President did have such an intention—under existing laws, just what could he accomplish along the line of censorship?

There are two answers, as follows: As far as the press is concerned, he could do practically nothing. As far as radio is concerned, he could do practically everything.

Networks Could Be Taken Over

Under the Federal Communications act of 1934, the President may at his discretion use almost any means of regulating or controlling broadcasting. He may order equipment removed from any station.

The legislation under which broadcasters are now licensed specifies that the President is empowered to take such rigorous action in time of war, in time of threat or peril to this country—or "to preserve the neutrality of the United States."

The likelihood that any such powers would be invoked is very slight, however, according to the Federal Communications Commission.

"Broadcasters are doing a remarkable job of censoring their own stuff," says a spokesman for the commission. "We have been told that a comparatively liberal censorship exists in European countries, including Germany. Commentators are not required to submit word-for-word copies of their talks in advance, but are simply asked to hand over their notes to the official censor before going on the air."

FCC officials point out that radio is tackling its new role of war coverage without precedents to fall back on. Officials of networks, as well as of individual stations, have displayed full willingness to co-operate with the commission.

If the FCC or the President desires any change in method of presentation or in type of program during the war in Europe, there is every evidence that the radio people will comply willingly with any suggestions that are made.

Press Co-operates Anyway

Beyond making suggestions—which might or might not be acted on—there isn't much of anything the administration could do to control the press as long as the country is neutral.

It ought to be added, probably, that no one in the government is worried by this fact. Wholly aside from the little matter of the freedom of the press, it is pointed out that the newspapers have amply demonstrated their willingness to co-operate in previous grave crises.

During the last war — after the United States got in, that is—the Post Office Department did try to get through a bill which would have put stringent restrictions on newspapers through control of their use of the mails. Congress refused to pass the bill, however; as it turned out, the newspapers themselves established a central bureau of censorship for the handling of government information.

Rabbi Elefant, New Tifereth Israel Leader, Comes Highly Recommended

RABBI G. A. ELEFANT

Rabbi Gilbert A. Elefant, for 23 years leader of Ohav Shalom synagogue, Donora, Pa., has this month taken over the leadership of New Castle's orthodox congregation, the Tifereth Israel, of South Jefferson street.

The American Jewish Outlook, published in Pittsburgh, gives a splendid tribute to Rabbi Elefant in reporting his acceptance of the call to the local synagogue. The Outlook article follows:

Active in numerous civic affairs in Donora, Rabbi Elefant is recognized as a leader of orthodoxy in this territory and heads the tri-state Shomre Mishmereth Hakoresh, or rabbinical assembly.

Under his direction the Donora synagogue expanded, built an annex, a community center and a chapel on its cemetery grounds, at the same time clearing its mortgage indebtedness.

Four rabbis now serving pulpits in various sections of the country received their initial training under Rabbi Elefant, including one of his own sons, Rabbi Maurvin J. Elefant, of Congregation A. A. Sfard, New Orleans.

Lightning War By Germany Has Failed

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Sept. 14.—Germany's dread "blitzkrieg" today was believed eliminated as a factor in the European war.

The second week of hostilities neared its close, a high French military authority told me.

The most important development of the war so far is the failure of the blitzkrieg (lightning war).

If it ever was actually possible, the fact is that it is no longer possible.

Mobilization Complete

The primary object of the blitzkrieg is prevention of general mobilization through intensive bombardment of important centers of communication, transportation and concentration and at the same time demoralization of the general population.

"General mobilization today is complete in Poland and virtually complete in France.

"Thus the massive raids upon Poland have failed strategically, although it cannot be denied that they were highly successful tactically.

"It would be too late to achieve the principal aim if massive raids were launched against France now. I don't say that raids could not and would not accomplish much destruction of life and property, but it is too late for them now to achieve their main military objective."

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Now you take this business of the streggio—or rather, on second thought just leave it to the Hymie. Here was a little Mock Duck, a slick little Chink, with a nice suit of Moe Levys and a big diamond in his necktie. He had a smile like a baby, but his eyes made me think of a bimbo from Perth Amboy that I once mistook for a sucker when I was dealing stiffs. Anyway, Mock's little tong wins several nice shooting matches with the On Leongs.

"But old Tom Lee is smart as well as tough and his big mob begins to close on Mock. Mock had to jump to St. Louis and Tom begins to scratch all the fan-tan joints around town and they never expect to see Mock again. Everybody says Mock is sunk. But one night, Tom Lee and the On Leongs are coming out of a joss house and here across the street is Mock Duck, with a new $90 suit on him and he's blazing all over with diamonds. He pulls a brace of gats and starts shooting in all directions. That was like the battle of the Marne. Mock Duck was the worst shot in the world, but he never quit.

"He got shot up considerably him-

"I might break my arm. I'll just give you the lay and you put it down. As I was saying about the streggio, I never thought the Italians were very smart with that trick. The Chinamen did it better and I been thinking up some things about the Chinamen for this piece—but first I want the public to understand once for all that Al Capone shouldn't have had that mark on him. As I just told you, the streggio is the way the Italians mark up a squealer. They put a lot of queer stuff in the papers about it and I'm one of only three men alive who know how it was—the others got knocked off, or something.

"I'm over in Red Hook the day it happened. A dick comes over to the Avante Club and sloughs one of the mob and a young Sicilian slips them the word that Capone had put the finger on this kid. So, naturally they tie Capone down and put this mark on his cheek. Before they let him up in comes another club member to tell them that a fellow named Romero has squealed and that the cops are coming and that this Romero is on the lam. So they let Capone up and fix up his cheek and later they throw a party for him at Walhalla Hall."

"I just wanted to tell you about this. As to these Chinamen, I'm backing them to dump the Japs in the long run. The way I get Jake to all this when I figure I could work up a nice trade for a pig sow joint if I could learn the game, about 30 years ago, I know a fat old harness bull over on Pell Street, and he always downstairs with the Chinks, playing pig sow. I learn the game, but I never get around to opening the joint and before long I'm an old settler around Chinatown.

"It was about this time that big Tom Lee became head of the On Leong Tong. This Tom Lee wasn't a very big Chink, but he carried a lot of weight, and don't think different. In those days the Hip Slings were just a little sand lot tons and Tom Lee used to shove them around a lot. That was until Mock Duck came along. He was a slick little Chink not much to look at but with a lot on the ball. He got to be leader of the Hip Slings and he tells the boys that if they will string along, hell deck this old white goatseeded, Tom Lee.

"Tom Lee's wife had crocheted him some underwear out of steel wire and Mock had his wife make him the same kind of a suit. A bullet would bounce off it like a rubber ball. That war lasted for years.

"This old harness bull was a friend of Mock Duck and one day self; half a dozen times he had to scram off to San Francisco, but, altogether he came back shooting eight times, and when his ammunition gave out he always had his pockets full of hatchets. He never did kill Tom Lee, but he discouraged him so he quit, and in 1914 the Hip Slings took over.

"That's how I figure it will be in that war over there. The Chinks never quit when they think they've been abused, and there's a lot of them over there, maybe a Mock Duck in the lot."

Naval Airman Saves His Neck With Parachute

(International News Service)
WOODBURY, N. J., Sept. 14.—

Unable to pull his craft out of a nose dive, Aviation Chief Machinist Mate L. C. Powell of the U. S. Navy leaped out at 2,000 feet, Wednesday and glided safely to earth in his parachute, landing 200 feet from his demolished observation plane.

Witnesses said three navy planes, all of which were believed to have been undergoing tests after repairs at the Philadelphia navy yard, had been maneuvering over the outskirts of this community for some time before one of them flew off. A few minutes later, Powell's ship went into a dive.

The pilot evidently shut off the ignition switch before bailing out as the plane did not catch fire when it crashed into the backyard of the home of John Ackley in East Woodbury. Powell landed in a patch of weeds, unhurt.

Hundreds Of Spies Seized By Russia

MOSCOW, Sept. 14.—Official newspapers today reported "liquidation" of "violators" on Soviet Russia's southern frontier and arrests of "spies and diversionists."

The government paper Izvestia reported the capture near the Soviet-Polish border of "more than 200 spies and diversionists" who attempted to enter the country.

The Red Star, organ of the Soviet Army, told of the "liquidation" of six "border violators" from an unidentified country — possibly Romania or Turkey. The report said two were shot in an escape attempt and the other four were "liquidated."

The Red Star also said a man named Ignat, charged with espionage on behalf of Poland and Britain, was "given what he deserved" after his conviction by a special military tribunal at Smolensk.

CHILD'S COMPLAINTS ABOUT
HOSPITAL PROVE OFTEN TO BE FIGMENTS OF IMAGINATION

I have found that parents often take a dislike to hospitals because of things their child may have told them about what went on when they were there. Children pass through an age when exaggeration and flights of imagination are as natural as eating. For instance, when little Jimmy comes home from playing and tells mother and dad how ten big bears chased him down the street and how he killed them all, they recognize the story as a figment of the imagination. At the very worst, they chide him for telling tall tales.

But when that child is lying in the hospital and the parents go to see him there, they don't seem to realize that the stories he tells them are just as apt to be flights of imagination as the story about the bears. So if he tells how the little boy in the next bed cried and cried because the doctors hurt him, or how cross and mean the nurses are to him, don't get too upset about it. A great many children take this method of increasing their importance to their parents. I know that again and again there has been trouble between hospital and parents because of some tale told by a child, which, when investigated, proved to be another tall story.

In my opinion, the truly great disadvantage of a children's hospital is the danger of infection. As you know, it requires a period of from several days to several weeks for various contagious diseases to develop. So the child in the next bed to yours may have contracted whooping cough ten days before coming to the institution. If the parents of that child knew about the contact and told the doctors, the child could be placed in a separate ward, but chances are about a

From the medical society . . . Until quite recently surgery and phthisis did not mix.

Phthisis is another name for tuberculosis of the lungs.

Surgeons feared to operate on the tuberculous patient.

Today surgery is used in the treatment of tuberculosis.

Surgery does not cure tuberculosis but it is an aid.

In this disease there is a high death rate.

Advantage is taken of any and every method of help.

Surgery on the tuberculous patient is mechanical.

It aids the patient better to combat the infection.

Surgery in tuberculosis calls for skill and judgment. Just when, where and how to operate is a vital problem.

Surgery, while supplementary, is valuable in phthisis.

COLLEGE ALL SET FOR BANNER YEAR

NEW WILMINGTON, Sept. 14.—With an estimated addition of 250 incoming Freshman at Westminster this fall, the college faces another year of capacity enrollment. Freshman Week is set to begin with an 8:30 chapel, Friday morning, September 15.

Following a day of placement tests, regular orientation classes will begin Tuesday, Sept. 19. The incoming freshmen will be from eight different states. Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York, West Virginia, Wisconsin, New Jersey, Michigan and Massachusetts.

Scheduling for upperclassmen will be from 1:30 until 4:30, Wednesday, Sept. 20. All regular classes are to begin Thursday morning at 8 o'clock. Dr. R. F. Galbreath will address the first all-college chapel, 10:45, Thursday morning, Sept. 21.

Word has been received from Prof. James V. Baker, natural born English citizen, and member of the English department, that he would return to Westminster this fall. Because of the war, it was believed previously that he might be held in England for war-duty.

"Saddle and Spur," a stable of Kentucky bred horses, will make its bow to horse minded collegians this fall, under the supervision of Senior Orvis Yingling and J. L. Daugherty, New Wilmington, former Kentucky horseman. The Saddle and Spur stable expects to have eight horses available for riding, and officially opens Sept. 14.

ANOTHER AIRPLANE

AT AIRPORT HERE

According to Findley C. Wilson, another airplane has been added to the list at the New Castle Airport. Joseph Mancino, formerly of this city, who has been living in Leechburg, Pa., for several years, was recalled to his work here and returned, bringing his plane.

Mancino is well known at the local airport, due to the fact that he flew from the field here in 1929 and 1930. The airplane will be stored in one of the new hangars at the field.

That was during a period of hard times here. But since then, farmers have gained some financial security. County Judge William Jones, disbursing agent of the estate, decided to change Mrs. Chaney's plan.

He reasoned that the money could be put to work more profitably for the farmers than be doled out, to be spent and forgotten.

"Livestock improvement — that's the thing," Judge Jones decided.

War Weariness Is Evident In Japan

TOKIO, Sept. 14.—A vague uneasiness, product of war weariness and anxiety for the future, is stirring among the people of Japan.

There has been no lessening of patriotism among the people during the more than two years of the war in China, but there are signs of growing discontent over the lack of success of the China campaign.

Two notable incidents of the trend were the police concern over a mysterious movement dramatized by the appearance at dusk each evening of white-robed men who worship at shrines in various parts of the empire, and the discovery of assassination plots directed against some of Japan's key men.

Fanaticism and mysterious rites have combined in Japan's past to bring about uprisings and deeds of violence. The police, ever watchful for indications of popular unrest, saw some resemblance in the behavior of the white-robed worshippers to the activities of the Blood Brotherhood League prior to the 1932 revolt in which Premier Inukai was assassinated.

Trio Confessed Plot

Three men were arrested in Tokio on July 15 of this year and confessed to an assassination plot against Count Makino, former Lord Keeper of the Privy Seal; Kurahachi Yuasa and Imperial Household Minister Tsuneso Matsudaira.

Since then there have been unconfirmed reports of other assassination plots against cabinet ministers.

All of the men reported as the objects of plots are moderates, persons of high ability who are opposed to embroiling Japan in headstrong acts antagonistic to other nations. They used their influence against the proposed German-Italy-Japan alliance. They also urged a course of moderation in Japan's dealings with Great Britain and the United States.

The anti-British demonstrations in Tokio this summer showed another aspect of the situation. There was no lack of genuineness about the feeling against Britain in Japan at that time.

During the last two years the people here have been told, by newspapers, magazines and in letters from soldiers at the front, that Britain was obstructing Japan's objectives in China. When patriotic organizations began agitating against Britain they found a ready response and there was no difficulty in turning out as many thousands as they desired for the anti-British demonstrations.

Such a display against the United States would be impossible at present.

American Views Published

After the abrogation of the 1911 commercial agreement by the United States there were some anti-American declarations, but they evoked little popular response. On the contrary, America's views were presented with remarkable clarity despite the usual rigid censorship on news printed in Japan. K. K. Kawahami, Washington correspondent for the Osaka Mainichi and the Tokio Nichi Nichi, cabied to his papers and it was printed here:

"Japan must immediately evidence

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. They may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. If you feel like this, you are suffering and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the body. They help most people pass about 3 miles a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous wastes stay in the blood. That's why you start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Dean's Pills, made especially for kidney trouble $0.40 a box. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Dean's Pills.

Reds And Cards Both Win Games; Lead Unchanged

Gene Thompson Lets Dodgers Have Two Hits In 3-0 Shutout For Reds

BOBBY FELLER DEFEATS YANKS

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The Cardinals are still doggedly trailing the Reds but, to a neutral observer, the St. Louis cause seems rather hopeless.

It is misleading to say the Cards are only 3½ games behind the Reds; they are not that well off, because they have lost five more games than the Reds, and, as John McGraw used to say, games lost are gone forever, but games still unplayed may be won.

The Reds have 24 games to play the Cards 21. It is hard to believe the Reds will lose five more games than the Cards between now and the end of the season. Of course, it could happen, but the odds are all against it.

Reds Top Dodgers

Bill McKechnie has been looking for a pitcher to spare the overworked Walters and Derringer and he seemed to have found him yesterday in young Gene Thompson, who turned in a two-hitter 3-0 shutout against the Dodgers and the Dodgers these days are nobody's push-over. It takes real pitching to stop them.

Meanwhile the Cards had to use four pitchers to beat the Phils, 10-9, and would have been sunk except for Joe Medwick's homer that pulled the game out of the fire.

The Giants, who move in on the Reds for a five-game series starting today, split a doubleheader with the Pirates. Harry Gumbert came to life with a two-hitter to win the opener, 2-0, but the Pirates evened matters behind Klinger, 7-4.

The Bees seem to have fallen apart and they proved easy prey for the hustling Cubs who breezed in on the wings of a 19-hit barrage, 15-4.

Feller Beats Yanks

There was some nice pitching on tap in the American league where the Yanks saw their lead cut to 15 games as they dropped another to the Indians, 9-4, Bob Feller winning his 21st at the expense of Red Ruffing.

Joe DiMaggio finally broke his slump after 14 hitless times at bat with two singles, but is still a few points shy of the coveted 400 notch.

The Red Sox blanked the Tigers, 1-0, as old Lefty Grove made his 14th victory a four-hitter.

The Browns went on a rampage against the A's and won 11-3 while the White Sox, although getting six hits in each game, took a pair from the Senators, 3-1, in 11 innings, and 4-2 in eight heats, the latter being stopped by darkness.

Pictured above is the Butler High School football team that will come to Taggart stadium this city Friday night to help New Castle High School football team lift the lid on the 1939 football season. Butler comes here sporting a fast team with a 12 to 0 victory over Zelienople already chalked up. Coach Regis Heinerz is confident that the team this year can chase the New Castle High Jinx.

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh after more than two weeks of training has just about hit upon his starting lineup for the Butler game. Unless there are some last minute changes the New Castle "Red Hurricane" will take the field under the lights tomorrow night—Cennamo and Zarilla at the ends. Kuinis and Castrucci at the tackles, Picirillo and Gilboy at the guards, Adamo at center, Gender at quarter, Roberts left half, Clazza right half and Lauro at fullback.

The New Castle team will windup its training for the first game tonight at the stadium under the lights. A light signal drill will take place.

Galento-Nova Fight Friday

Lou Nova Favored To Defeat Roly Poly Barkeeper In Philadelphia Ring

PROBABLY LAST BOUT FOR GALENTO

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—A little older, a little bolder and louder than ever, T. Anthropoid Galento, Esq., has been waddling about the Pennsylvania countryside and through the precincts of Philadelphia proper these last few weeks enjoying what a majority believe are his last moments of revelry as a heavyweight championship contender. The time is drawing nigh seemingly when the truculent tub will truckle no more, as it were, and retire quite permanently to the business of dispensing odds and ends across his Orange, N. J., bar.

Specifically, the betting odds, the experts and everybody, except perhaps Galento's nearest of kin, are in agreement that he will be convincingly whipped by Lou Nova in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium tomorrow night. They say this is the finish of Galento, pugnastically.

As a matter of fact, we thought he was through last June after Joe Louis had finished with him and he had finished with the perpendicular, but Promoter Mike Jacobs, Manager Joe Jacobs and the man himself insisted that he had earned one more fling by virtue of what he almost did to the champion, or what the champion almost didn't do to him, or something like that. At the same time, all concerned were duly cognizant of the fact that Galento and Nova probably will draw $100,000, and that carried considerable weight in restraining Galento from retiring to his saloon across his Orange, N. J., bar.

Stock Market Rallies Today

Gains Of More Than Two Points In Many Issues; Steel Shares Some what Higher

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The stock market rallied today as new buying quickly wiped out early losses running to more than two points and substituted gains of as much.

Steel shares were early weak spots, U. S. Steel starting more than two points lower. A rally erased the losses and brought small gains in most active stocks in the group.

The chemical shares came up easily, with Allied rising more than two points. Other issues to gain as much included Western Union and International Harvester.

Chrysler advanced a point after starting moderately lower. Building shares added to yesterday's gains.

There was some pressure on the copper shares where losses were in the majority. Standard of New Jersey was strong in a mixed market for oil shares. Rails and utilities advanced.

The aviation shares started lower but came back with the rest of the list.

Hope Is Message Of New Year, Local Rabbi States

The following article concerning the observance of the Jewish New Year is contributed by Rabbi Gilbert A. Elefant of the Tifereth Israel congregation.

Wednesday, Sept. 13, at sunset the Jewish New Year called Rosh Hashanah was ushered in. This is the year 5700 according to the Mosiac count. At this occasion members of the Jewish faith all over the world assemble at their synagogues, temples and houses of worship in solemn convocation and devotional prayers.

According to Jewish tradition this Holy Day marks the season when every Jew makes a retrospective self-examination of his deeds and actions during the expiring year.

With solemn avowement he resolves to improve upon his conduct both towards God and man. He turns to his God with repentance and seeks forgiveness of sins committed.

The past year has been tragic to the Jewish people and replete with troubles and tribulations to mankind. A European country which was once the center of science and culture has been seized by forces of brutality and ignorance and has subjected a minority, the Jewish people, to the most atrocious torments and horrible tortures. This totalitarian state has now commenced digging at the very foundations of civilization and culture and has involved Europe in a bloody war which may yet envelop the entire world.

However, to live through and endure torture and tragedy is in itself a trial; in the bitterness of grief and disappointment we discover in ourselves the fine qualities of courage and perseverance. Man can endure a painful and miserable day if he can continue to hope for a happy and bright morrow. At this season we are reminded that the Jewish nation has endured persecutions and faced annihilation throughout the ages and has remained standing; this is our symbol that justice and uprightness will not be wiped from the face of the earth. We therefore, anticipate that the coming year will bring joy and happiness to all mankind.

The sounding of the Shofar is one of the most impressive services of the holiday and is intended to mark the solemnity of the occasion and to call for a searching examination of our deeds and conduct during the past year. The old year is gone, a

State Board Of Education For Ohio Is Urged

(International News Service) COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 14.—A state board of education would tend to strengthen the authority of local school boards in the opinion of Walter B. Bliss, executive secretary of the Ohio Education Association and former assistant state director of education.

Bliss' comment came in connection with the constitutional amendment creating a state board on which the Ohio electorate will vote at the November election.

"The authority of the local boards," the O. E. A. executive said, "will be respected more if the state school regulations that touch them are in the hands of a representative group of laymen who can appreciate local school boards' problems."

You'll want them around you every livelong hour when once you have felt their delightful sleekness. Of a beautiful quality rayon, with gleaming satiny self-stripe, they long ago set a fashion in undies. The expertly tailored panties and slips keep your silhouette paper-smooth for new wasp-waisted dresses. The pretty gowns trimly mould your waistline, yet give you plenty of room for turning and stretching comfortably. These are the same undies that are pictured in Harper's Bazaar—and we have a lot more we'd like to show you.

Rare Lava Found Near Boulder Dam

perhaps 30 or 40 miles down in the earth. As a tongue of lava it moved upward. It solidified just below the earth's surface, apparently without causing much displacement of the loose gravel.

Prof. Ian Campbell of the California Institute of Technology, and Dr. Edward T. Schenck, of the National Park Service told the Geological Society of America, it was unique because it was only 25,000 years old or less; because it was the only formation of the kind ever found anywhere in loose gravel and because it contained many huge crystals of mysterious origin.

The rocky material of which it is made came from the molten mass
